ORDER

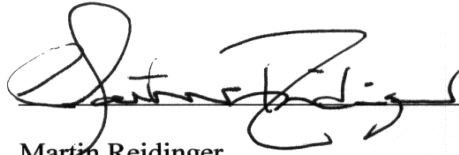

THIS MATTER is before the Court on the Defendant's Motion for Additional Relief [Doc. 17].

On May 21, 2009, the Defendant's sentence was reduced pursuant to Amendment 706, the Crack Cocaine Guideline Amendment, from 360 months to 292 months of imprisonment. [Doc. 7]. In the pending motion, the Defendant does not claim any error in the sentence reduction but merely asks for an additional reduction based on his reformation during incarceration, his desire to work with endangered youth, his health, and his belief that he has served sufficient time for the offense of conviction. At the time the Defendant's sentence was reduced pursuant to Amendment 706, the relevant sentencing factors were considered, including the seriousness of the offense and the Defendant's health, behavior and educational efforts during incarceration. [Doc. 5]. To the extent the Defendant seeks further relief, the grounds stated do not form an appropriate basis for such. 18 U.S.C. §§3582(c)(2); 3553(a).

IT IS, THEREFORE, ORDERED that the Defendant's Motion for Additional Relief [Doc. 17] is hereby DENIED.
